What are you doing now?:

My life at present revolves around family, home projects and travelling. This past year I did one welfare audit and have answered questions, provided expertise to those who call me. I am still in contact with other poultry vets, especially younger ones who may need some help or someone to bounce their ideas and concerns off. My veterinary license is no longer active but emeritus status. I am involved with the AAAP History Committee as Chair elect and also the American Veterinary Medical History Society.

Other Comments:

I recall studying and writing the ACPV exams the second year they were offered, (first year was too close to my due date). It has been rewarding to see the growth in the organization and the credibility it has added to our specialization. Well done. Best wishes for further growth and development !
