

Simone Stoute AAAP Biography

Dr. Stoute is a Professor at the University of California, Davis and is the Service Chief of the UC Davis California Health and Food Safety Lab (CAHFS) Poultry Residency Program. She is a poultry diagnostician and serves as the Branch Chief of the CAHFS Turlock lab. Dr. Stoute received her DVM from the University of the West Indies, completed her poultry residency at UC Davis and earned her PhD under Dr. Daral Jackwood at The Ohio State University. She is a diplomate of the American College of Poultry Veterinarians (ACPV) and has previously served as a member of the ACPV Nominations Committee. Dr. Stoute is a member of the AAAP Board of Directors. She currently serves on the Executive Committee for the Western Poultry Disease Conference (WPDC) and is the current WPDC President. Dr. Stoute has been a member of the AAAP since 2007 and has served on multiple AAAP committees including the respiratory disease committee.