About the cover

“Chicken Scratch” by Sebastian Toro and Haroldo Toro (April 24, 2017). The inspiration for the sketch came from a Picasso print of “Don Quixote” our father owns. Our aim in drawing was to capture a chicken in a moment’s time, to use as few lines as possible, so that the imagination of the viewer would be allowed to engage the drawing and fill it with its own richness of detail. Like the science within the journal, there is the hope that the reader will take what is presented and build upon it with their own creative eye.
