

Top Ten Reasons to be a AAAP Member

The AAAP publishes the gold standard journal, Avian Diseases four times a year, whose mission is to enhance scientific knowledge and promote avian health. AAAP members have direct online access to all issues from 1957 to current. Print copies are available for an additional fee.

The AAAP provides a premier scientific program each year at its annual meeting. Join us this year in Denver, CO. www.aaap.info/2014-annual-meeting-denver

The AAAP publishes a number of educational publications for the avian professional. Some of the titles are as follows: Avian Disease Manual, Avian Histopathology, A Practical Guide for Managing Risk in Poultry Production, Isolation, Identification, and Characteristics of Avian Pathogens, Tumor Diagnosis Manual, and over 28 Slide Study Sets.

The AAAP provides Avian Influenza and Diseases of Poultry to you at a substantial discount (25%) through Wiley Publishing.

AAAP members receive a discount on educational materials purchased online.

The AAAP works for you to disseminate information relating to the diagnosis of poultry and avian diseases.

The AAAP is recognized as an organization who can speak to the public, government and other organizations as an authority on avian medicine.

The AAAP, with our parent organization the AVMA, advocates for policies on the federal and state level that impact you, your profession and the poultry profession.

The AAAP provides opportunities for young people to explore avian medicine as a career through preceptorships, scholarships and awards.

AAAP Members pay 33% less for page charges when publishing articles in Avian Diseases.

Membership Costs for 2014

The cost for membership to AAAP varies with the membership category and your preference for print and/or online versions of Avian Diseases journal. Student membership is $20 for online access only. (Print available at member cost.) Member/Associate membership is $275 for online and print, $215 for online only. International membership is $300 for online and print, $215 for online only. You can become a member at: www.aaap.info/membership

AAAP has continued for 56 years to enhance scientific knowledge and promote avian health through its many educational programs, outreach and publications. Most of what AAAP does is made possible through a network of dedicated volunteers.

Information on our 2014 Annual Meeting in Denver, Colorado can be found at: www.aaap.info/2014-annual-meeting-denver

You can find AAAP on Facebook at: www.facebook.com/aaapinfo

Founded in 1957

The AAAP promotes scientific knowledge to enhance the health, well-being, and productivity of poultry to provide safe and abundant food for the world.

American Association of Avian Pathologists

12627 San Jose Blvd., Suite 202
Jacksonville, Florida 32223 USA
904-425-5735
aaap@aaap.info
www.aaap.info