Letter from the President

Hector Cervantes

Hello everyone, paraphrasing a famous song “spring is in the air, everywhere you look around...” yes, the time has flown since I contacted you last fall. I want to update you on actions we have taken to advance the agenda items I laid out on our previous newsletter. First, in regards to addressing issues of concern to consumers in a more effective manner and with the support of Phibro Animal Health and in collaboration with the ACPV, our first workshop on “Engage Training” by Look East will take place a day prior to the start of the 2017 National Meeting on Poultry Health and Processing in Ocean City, MD. If we have a good attendance we hope to offer the training at the next IPPE or AAAP meeting. Second, to enhance the quality of our scientific program and maintain high standards of conduct, all members that submitted titles and abstracts for presentation at our Annual Convention received a letter reminding them on what is expected from them, in addition, all presenters will also review a short presentation with examples of what is acceptable. Titles and abstracts are accepted once the presenters have agreed to abide by these rules. Third, in regards to recognizing our large number of attendees and members from the Latin American Region (LAR) and the growing importance of this region in poultry production, your Board approved the nomination of a member from the LAR to the Board as a “Director-at-large” and a joint symposium on respiratory diseases will take place at the ANECA Convention in Mexico. On other news, our Membership Committee conducted a survey of our members to find new ways in which the AAAP can add more value to your membership, the Board will discuss in depth the results of this survey and move forward with improvements. Thank you very much to those members that participated, your input is essential in advancing the AAAP’s mission. I encourage everyone to attend our big event of the year, our Annual Convention, to be held at the Indianapolis

Convention Center from July 21 - 25 where we will be celebrating our 60th anniversary, as part of the celebration please be sure to pick up your 60th Anniversary Booklet prepared thanks to the dedication and hard work of our History Committee and the generosity of Cobb-Vantress, likewise, be sure to attend the viewing of the AAAP History Video on Monday. This year there will be changes to our program in order to be in alignment with the AVMA’s. Our meeting will begin at 11:30 AM on Friday and will end at 12:00 noon on Tuesday, a light lunch buffet will be provided following the Keynote Speaker presentation on “Global Competitiveness of the U.S. Poultry Industry in a Changing World”. Instead of having a luncheon for the presentation of the awards we will have a dinner on Monday starting at 6:00 PM, be sure to come by at 5:30 PM to visit with your friends and colleagues at the awards reception before dinner. This year we will have a “Meet the Expert” session on Saturday to provide networking opportunities for our new members, I encourage everyone to attend and meet and welcome our new members. This year we welcome and offer our support for a new committee the “Small Flock Committee”, we wish them well and have no doubt that this committee will succeed and make many contributions. Our committees are the engine that drives the AAAP and this year we will have a “Top-performing Committee Award” to acknowledge this at the Business Meeting.

I want to thank our program Chair and Chair-elect, Drs. Danny Magee and Ivan Alvarado for the hard work they have been doing to assemble our scientific program and implement the changes previously discussed. It has been a privilege and an honor to serve as your 60th President and I hope that I have contributed my grain of salt to keep the AAAP moving forward. I do not want to close without thanking our former President, Dr. Rob Porter, for all the hard work he did for the AAAP and for paving the way for me and making my job a lot easier, likewise, I want to thank Dr. Suzanne Dougherty our EVP and Bob, Janece, Nathan and Diana from the AAAP business office for the fantastic work they do every day in support of our organization. Finally, I also want to welcome our incoming President Dr. John Smith and ask you to give him the same type of unconditional support that you gave me.

I look forward to seeing everyone at our annual meeting in Indianapolis and to having another excellent program and a memorable celebration of our 60th anniversary.

Sincerely,

Letter from the Executive Vice President
Suzanne Dougherty

Dear AAAP Members,

AAAP is anticipating another outstanding annual meeting this summer in Indianapolis. The Jacksonville office is working tirelessly to get everything prepared for our scientific portion as well as our social functions. We also appreciate all the work Danny Magee and Ivan Alvarado have done to organize and prepare the schedule for our scientific presentations and posters.

Membership Update

The 2017 AAAP membership renewal period is taking place so please be sure to renew your membership. Our membership dues are our primary source of income managing our organization. It is very important for those of you who are veterinarians to maintain your AVMA membership. This allows AAAP to be an allied organization to the AVMA and have delegates to the AVMA House of Delegates and our seats on the various AVMA committees and councils. Please contact the office today to renew your membership.

Educational Material

We are excited to announce we have the updated Practical Guide for Managing Risk in Poultry Production for purchase. The authors have worked very hard to get this guide out for you in 2017. In addition, we have a new Gross Histopathology book coming out this summer that was generously donated to AAAP by Drs. Tahseen Aziz and John Barnes. As a reminder, as a benefit to your membership, AAAP members get a discount.

AAAP Position Statements and White Papers

We continue to update and create new position statements and white papers. Since our last newsletter, our animal welfare committee updated the "Statement on Stunning in Commercial Poultry in North America." We also have a new position on the "Statement on Hormone use in Poultry." All of these can be found on the AAAP website. The Animal Welfare Committee has also created a Broiler Leg Injury Scoring Guide, which will be released early summer.

AAAP Advocacy and Washington DC Fly-In to AVMA Governmental Relations Division

AAAP stays very involved in poultry health advocacy at the federal level. AAAP has representatives and have attended meetings including those of Presidential Advisory Council Public Meeting on Combating Antibiotic Resistant Bacteria. We have also participated in a congressional briefing on Antibiotic Use on the farm. Discussions were focused on implementation and execution of the new FDA 209 and 213 policy. We have participated in discussions engaged with key stakeholders regarding CDC, FDA, and USDA communication efforts with food animal practitioners and producers regarding foodborne antibiotic resistance. We also have representatives on multiple antimicrobial use councils and committees and signed on to multiple congressional letters supporting poultry health.

AAAP will have several members visit the AVMA Governmental Relations Division office in Washington DC the week of October 22, 2017. This will be a fly-in focusing on AAAP needs and interests in relation to current legislation, government agency issues and stakeholder group issues. There will also be visits to the hill to discuss issues with congressional and senatorial offices. If you are interested in learning more about how legislation functions, please contact me and join the Legislative Action Committee. There is also a new position on staff at the AVMA Governmental Relations division to promote veterinary advocacy.

Symposium in Indianapolis – Something off the Beaten Path

For symposium in Indianapolis, we are taking a different approach this year. Instead of our symposium being science focused, we are going to discuss and review Poultry and Policy and how important this topic is to all our members. We will have some amazing speakers including representatives from AVMA Governmental Relations Divisions and FDA. We will also have presentations on current legislation, hot topics for turkeys, and broilers, and a history of the egg bill. This is sure to be a interesting symposium!

Food Animal Veterinarians and AVMA

The AVMA's three Food Animal Veterinary Allied organizations; the American Association of Bovine Practitioners, the American Association of Swine Veterinarians and the AAAP, meet twice a year with the AVMA Executive VP and her senior staff. This group discusses the issues of greatest concern for food animal veterinary medicine. We recently met and discussed several topics of interest including AVMA's new committee on Antimicrobials and their tasks. Dr. Chuck Hofacre is the AAAP representative on this committee. AVMA should release their new Telemedicine and Depopulation Guidelines in late 2017. The AVMA Euthanasia Guidelines will be updated in 2018.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Young Dougherty
Executive Vice President, AAAP

AAAP Booth at the SAVMA Symposium

AAAP Members with Texas A&M ties as well as the AAAP Membership Committee organized a AAAP information booth at this year's Student AVMA meeting on the Texas A&M campus. Thank you to Blair Telg, Allen Byrd, Katie Burchfield and Blayne Mozisek who manned the booth and provided "freebies." Also thanks to Suzanne Dougherty and Yuko Sato for organizing. The booth was well attended and everyone involved thought it was a great success!

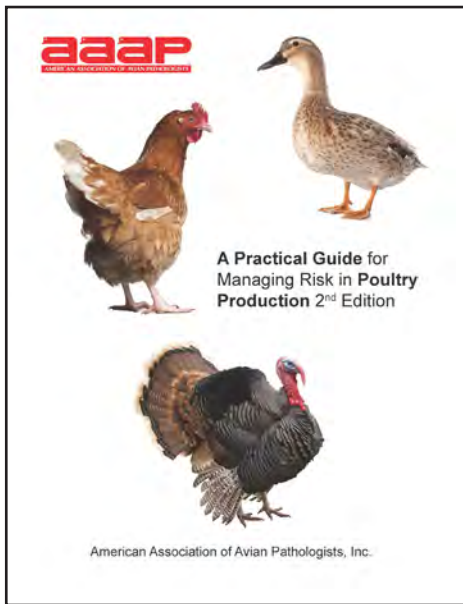

AAAP Symposium

The AAAP Legislative Advisory Committee invites you to the 2017 Symposium titled, "Poultry and Policy: A Melee of Science, Agriculture and Policy." It will be held Saturday, July 22, 2017 from 7:30 AM to 12:00 PM. Invited speakers include Mark Lutschaunig of the AVMA Governmental Relations Division and Michael Murphy from the FDA Center for Veterinary Medicine

A Star is Born

The AAAP Awards Dinner is scheduled for Monday, July 24, 2017 at the Westin Indianapolis Hotel. It begins with a reception at 5:30 in Ballroom 3 and moves to Ballroom 4 for dinner at 6:00. There will be a cash bar so bring your wallet. We'll recognize all award winners as well as this year's Hall of Honor recipients. In addition, we have a super fun video planned! Hint: You're on Candid Camera!

New AAAP Publication

The 2nd edition of A Practical Guide for Managing Risk in Poultry Production is now available for purchase! The book contains several new chapters as well as revisions to existing chapters and is available online at the AAAP Bookstore for $40 plus shipping and handling.

“This book is intended to be a practical field guide to help food supply veterinarians specializing in poultry make knowledgeable recommendations on aspects of disease prevention other than the traditional vaccination programs and treatment regimens.” Dr. Robert Owen, Editor

AAAP Opening Session

This brand-spanking-new event will be held on Friday, July 21, 2017 at 11:30 AM at the Convention Center. It will include an awesome PowerPoint because who doesn't love those. Join us as we reflect on AAAP's past, recognize this year's Annual Meeting Sponsors, and kick-off the 2017 Scientific Program.

AAAP Foundation

The University of Georgia Jack Tumlin MAM Poultry Scholarship is now Fully Funded!

Way to go MAM Poultry Scholarship contributors! The fund has reached $40,000; enough to fund a $1,000 scholarship into perpetuity. Special thanks to the generous stock donations from Calvin and Judy Anthony. There are now two fully funded named scholarships - The University of Georgia Jack Tumlin MAM Poultry Scholarship and the AAAP Past Presidents Scholarship. Since its inception in 2014, the AAAP Foundation Poultry Scholarship has continued to grow every year. This is a testament to the generosity of AAAP's members as well as corporate donors. Your continued support of endowed scholarships ensures that the AAAP Foundation continues to aid talented young people eager to pursue a career in poultry medicine. This year alone we had 27 veterinary students apply for the AAAP Foundation scholarships, and a grand total of $41,500 was awarded to the deserving candidates. The AAAP Foundation currently has 3 named Poultry Scholarships which still require capital; the AAAP Foundation R. W. Winterfield Poultry Scholarship fund, The Arthur Bickford Poultry Scholarship Fund, and the Riddell-Julian Canadian Poultry Scholarship Fund.

AAAP Foundation Update

The AAAP Foundation is having a very good year. Merck Foundation has stepped up, again, to increase scholarship funding (thank you, Norm Stewart) and Aviagen will support four preceptorships in addition to those funded by the Eskelund Endowment and the AAAP (thank you, Eric Jensen).

The Foundation Development Committee, led by Stewart Ritchie and Kristen Roza-Sutherland, is reaching out to AAAP members and allied companies to support additional Eskelund preceptorships and scholarships. The popular Eskelund Preceptorship Scholarship Program has more deserving applicants than can be funded by the Eskelund Endowment (just two). AAAP Inc. has been picking up the tab for the remaining preceptorships – more than 10 in recent years. The challenge to find support for the additional preceptorships has been shifted to the Foundation. The new support from Aviagen is a great start, but more can participate. Please contact the development committee if you would like to help, or be ready to help when they contact you.

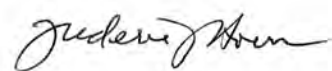

Do you have a vacation cabin or a condo that could be shared for a weekend with your AAAP colleagues? The AAAP Foundation Silent Auction is looking to increase support for scholarships and preceptorships. Higher priced donations are needed to spur some serious bidding. Your vacation condo that is sitting empty most of the year just might be the ticket! Or maybe your hobby or hidden culinary skills could become an auction item. Your friendly development committee will be glad to assist in developing your idea as an auction item. Volunteers are needed for the auction; please contact Stewart or Kristen if you would like to help. Very importantly, many thanks to Pat Wakenell for the ongoing success of the auction as she passes the baton to the development committee.

AAAP members can now support the Foundation with every purchase made at Amazon.com. Go to the AmazonSmile Shopping cart to purchase your order and the AAAP Foundation will receive 0.5% of the sale. Sales prices are the same as the regular Amazon site. Bookmark this link: <http://smile.amazon.com/ch/23-2542890> so all eligible shopping will benefit AAAP Foundation. I personally recommend the 240-ml prefilled formalin jar available on Amazon.

It was the vision of Kenny Eskelund that started the preceptorship program, and the vision of AAAP members who wanted a scholarship program six years ago. Both are now successful programs supporting careers in poultry health and the future of AAAP. Where should the AAAP Foundation next direct its focus? Your ideas are key to the success of the Foundation. Be watching for an online survey that will allow you to register your opinion.

The AAAP Foundation encourages excellence and enables opportunity for those dedicated to nourishing the world with a sustainable abundance of healthy poultry. Let's make it happen!

For the Good of the Order,
Fred Hoerr

ACPV News

The 2017 ACPV Board of Governors election was held on March 15-31, 2017 and the results are in! ACPV Diplomates have chosen between 6 highly qualified candidates to serve on the Board of Governors. The newly elected officials will serve for a term of 3 years. The American College of Poultry Veterinarians wants to especially thank outgoing governors, Dr. Patricia Dunn, Dr. Phil Stayer, and Past President Dr. Becky Tilley for their dedicated service.

- President-Elect: Dr. David Hermes, DVM, Dipl. ACPV

Dr. Hermes has been a Diplomate of the American College of Poultry Veterinarians since 1994. He is currently the Regional Director of Veterinary Services for Perdue Foods LLC. At Perdue, he provides veterinary services for live production and processing facilities. He is USDA accredited and licensed in NC, IN, IL, KY, GA.

- Governor: Dr. Don Ritter, DVM, ACPV

Dr. Ritter has been a Diplomate of the American College of Poultry Veterinarians since 1992. He is currently the Senior Director of Health Services at Mountaire Farms Inc. He is a board-certified poultry veterinarian who has worked directly for chicken broiler production companies on the Delmarva Peninsula during the past 32 years. For the last 22 years, he has worked for Mountaire Farms Inc., the 7th largest U.S. broiler company with production capacity of 7 million birds per week.

- Governor: Dr. Sarah E. Tilley

Dr. Tilley has been a Diplomate of the American College of Poultry Veterinarians since 2011. She is currently the Director of Poultry Health Services at Fieldale Farms. At Fieldale, she has provided poultry health, welfare practices, and food safety services to pullet, broiler breeder, and broiler growers in northeast Georgia and South Carolina. She currently oversees the health and biosecurity program of an antibiotic free broiler integrator through routine work with growers, supervisors, and managers on farm as well as in hatcheries and processing plants.

AAAP Around the World

I travel to Ethiopia at least once a year and often my trip involves family visits and teaching veterinary students avian diagnostic pathology. This past February, 4th year veterinary students were taught a week long avian pathology and hands on practice on poultry dissection.

Hailu Kinde, Professor Emeritus,
School of Veterinary Medicine, UC Davis

The AAAP Foundation graciously donated three books of Avian Histopathology, 4th edition (2016), three books of Isolation, Identification, and Characterization of Avian Pathogens, 6th edition (2016), and three Avian Disease Manuals - 7th Edition, (2013). Books were presented to Dr. Dinka Ayana, Dean College of Veterinary Medicine, Addis Ababa University; Professor Yacob Hailu, Dept Head of Path & Parasitology (center).

At the 42nd Annual Convention of the ANECA held from May 3 – 6 in Boca del Rio, Veracruz, Mexico, the AAAP and the ANECA successfully held a joint Symposium entitled, “The Cost of Respiratory Diseases” in which several AAAP members participated (see picture). Over 725 people attended ANECA’s Annual Convention.

At the 42nd Annual Convention of the ANECA held from May 3 – 6 in Boca del Rio, Veracruz, Mexico, the AAAP and the ANECA successfully held a Forum entitled, “Antibiotics: Restrictions, Trends and Alternatives” in which several AAAP members participated (see picture). Over 725 people attended ANECA’s Annual Convention.
